Litigation

Problem Solved

We're problem solvers. Unlike many other litigators, Mirick attorneys actually try cases. We handle trials in the state and federal courts, and we represent clients in arbitrations. We recognize that litigation is often disruptive and expensive. Whatever the client's objective or problem, we seek to achieve that goal quickly and effectively.

Strong Negotiators In and Out of the Courtroom

We also recognize that not every case can or should be tried. In those circumstances, litigation can generate leverage for negotiating successful resolutions. Where appropriate, we mediate cases and use other forms of alternative dispute resolution. We counsel our clients on litigation avoidance and risk management. We work with our clients to evaluate each dispute to determine the best way to solve our client's problem, be it prosecuting or defending the case through verdict and appeals or seeking a negotiated settlement.

Cost-effective Representation

Clients rely on Mirick litigators for high-quality, cost-effective litigation and strategic counseling. We use practical, results-oriented methods to resolve and, where appropriate, avoid disputes for our clients.

Expanding our Reach

We represent businesses and individuals in a myriad of industries. Although headquartered in Massachusetts, our litigators handle cases across the country. We represent some of our clients regionally, in the state and federal courts in Massachusetts, Connecticut and Rhode Island. In other states, we routinely coordinate with local counsel who share our goals of efficiency, timeliness, and positive results. We also belong to a world-wide network of law firms when a client's needs expand overseas.
