Growing Pains

Protecting your future and that of your family is invaluable. Whether you are dealing with an aging loved one or are yourself an older adult planning for your senior years, there is typically a good number of emotions involved at this stage of life. The fear of potential health issues, financial insecurity, or losing your independence can become overwhelming.

Beyond Paperwork

Mirick's Elder Law Team understands the emotional side of elder law planning and the decisions seniors need to make as you grow older. We also understand the perspective of children dealing with aging parents. As specialized elder law attorneys, we work closely with families to help ease some of the stress and uncertainty that goes hand in hand with elder law estate planning.

The Right Plan for You

At Mirick, we provide personalized legal counsel, education, and resources to support clients in protecting their assets, provide for their needs, and minimize their tax burden.
