Overview

Jim has extensive experience in all aspects of civil and criminal litigation. His primary practice is personal injury litigation. He is a dedicated attorney committed to protecting clients' rights and securing the outcomes they deserve. Known for being respectful in his approach and responsive to client needs, Jim is a calming force throughout. He combines strong legal knowledge with integrity and persistence to deliver results while maintaining open communication and trust at every stage of the process.

A native of Birmingham, England, Jim completed his undergraduate studies at the University of Portsmouth before moving to the United States. Following a career in human services, he graduated law school. He is active in the local community, volunteering for high school and middle school mock trial teams, coaching youth soccer and is a long term member of the Paxton Lions Club.
